

ABSTRACT

A content addressable memory (CAM) having a main array including a plurality of columns of CAM cells, a spare column of CAM cells selectable to functionally replace a defective column of CAM cells in the main array, and circuitry to shift data corresponding to the defective column and data corresponding to all subsequent columns to corresponding adjacent non-defective columns.